Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Sunday 24 Oct 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Patchy rain clearing to showers today. Staying changeable next week.

Today:
Cloudy and breezy with occasional rain moving east across the region this morning. Brighter skies and showers will follow on from the west this afternoon. Feeling pleasant in any afternoon sunshine. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Tonight:
Further showers to come through the evening and at first overnight, but these tending to become confined to Pennine areas by dawn. Turning quite chilly in well sheltered locations. Minimum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Monday:
A bright start for many, before a scattering of showers develop by lunchtime. That said, a fair number of places should remain dry. Still breezy and relatively mild. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Mainly dry and bright on Tuesday. Windy on Wednesday and Thursday, with occasional rain. Very mild for the time of year both by day and overnight.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.